

My Defeating of Major Cancers began in 2004 =>

rewrite of doc on December 14, 2008:

As with many of my web pages it isn't a webpage Work de Art. It's difficult to cram ideas into a page where they don't make people run for the hills. But, I still believe that Ibuprofen helps cure cancers, or better yet prevents them. Ibuprofen is engineered to "get into" the body's cells, engineered for best optimal chemical entry, engineered to unlock body cells by relaxing tough cell membranes. So when you take a vitamin mineral pill along with Ibuprofen, the two "ride together". Ibuprofen opens the cell doors wide so that the nutrition products you or I take get into the cell to accomplish their strengthening "job". {This is similar to an AC and a DC electrical current running on the same wire at the same time.}

My issue with modern medical treatment is that nutrition products & medicines should be used together to double whammy illness. Apparently my ideas about that do work. Last year I had Meniere's Syndrome. It was ROUGH because it spread through my inner ear, out into the mastoid bones around the ear, then even some over into my face bones on the right side. I looked it up on the Internet, says Meniere's is incurable; yet today I am freed of it. A few months ago I was in bad shape, felt like my head was swimming in some fluid. I didn't know what was happening to me or whether I would survive period. One day I was talking to an acquaintance and as I spoke to him my lower jaw spasmed and jumped a few times.

It caused me to mis-pronounce some words. Now for someone not knowing what was going on it would be easy to think "This guy has a serious mental problem." Well, I finally figured out what was going on about a month ago (January 2007). I was infected with Lyme's Disease back in 1983 from a bite while out in the yard, next to a field. My thigh got a really large orange glowing spot, on both legs even.

So I researched Lyme's Disease and found out the spirocheate bacteria that are injected by the tick bite, well, they never leave you. Any old time you get sick and your body's immune defenses are down, or plain worn out from battling some other illness, the dormant spirocheates can take advantage and begin to multiply. Last year I was ill all year. Hypertension was 240/140 and sometimes over that. There was the Meniere's attacking me early in the year.

Last year was rough. My lungs filled with fluid. William passed away. And the Lyme's made a comeback, filling my brain and spinal fluids with a full assault of the spirocheates to such a point my very ability to speak words was affected. I was clogged with th little fellers, little Paul Bunyans trying to take down Goliath as most diseases do in fact try to do, returning us to the ground from whence we came eh?

According to the Internet, Lyme's is helped by antibiotics. I didn't get prescriptions for antibiotics the last half of 2006. Supposedly Lyme's is incurable, yet I pounded it into submission along with Meniere's Syndrome. Spirocheates were probably one thing that had caused me to have severe hypertension & heart jumping these past 4 years anyway... and now they have been driven back into dormancy.

How? Ibuprofen and lots of nutrition products? My faith in my ability to heal myself with healthy DNA instruction codes? My faith in God? I tend to believe all of the above. Health is a package deal we achieve by engaging every tool we can find, spiritual tools and physical. I think some people drift away from physical health plus drift away from spiritual health, and one day they are just plain drifted away. They are lost away from all the tools they need to maintain a powerhouse level of disease-fighting health.

When our son and brother was dying from leukemia, I looked at the bag of potassium fluid hanging by his bed. And I wondered "Why aren't they hanging a bag of liquid nutrition supplements also?" Why is modern Medical Science cutting off half of the healing equation, the half of super nutritioning the body and mind of a dying patient? I mean, exactly what do they have to lose? Their Pride? To hell with pride. When someone is dying, as I was all through 2006, you don't hold ANYTHING BACK. You throw the kitchen sink! So that is what I spent all of 2006 doing, trying to survive and keep living. During that time I wrote lots of web pages, and some people will want to say, as they always want to say, that I was writing as some kind of "therapy". They want to diminish the importance of the many health & engine discoveries by saying "Oh, he's just ranting. Let him do it. It is good therapy." And so by December 12 2008 yes, it was thanks very much.

Of course it is. Engaging the mind, tackling tough subjects that others cannot solve, has been great therapy. It helped me recover from 12 years being overdosed with 1200 mgs. per day of Lithium Carbonate, a salt and quite poisonous if taken long term. Medical manuals have long advised against long term lithium carbonate. Now we know why. It bleeds into other areas of the brain, the motor cortex, causes a weakening of the entire human organism. In 2002 I was skirting heart failure. In 2000 & 2001 according to Lewis-Gale Hospital doctors, my heart every so often was trying to beat in reverse order, shoving blood backwards back into the lungs THE WRONG WAY.

They sent me home after telling me that, without any medicines or treatment or seeing one of their heart specialists. WHY?! Was it because they knew the lithium -their new pet wonder drug fits all- had poisoned me to failing brain function, resulting in my heart function going down the tubes? Was it because they knew my motor cortex was dying? Was it because they did not have the b^lls nor feel any professional responsibility to tell me I had better run purchase a burial plot and coffin?

They knew and they kept it to theirself. So I write my web pages for a LOT MORE THAN THERAPY. I write to tell you the solutions I have found because THEY WILL NOT. They will not tell you that in order for you to keep alive you need to merge medicine with nutrition with faith to the extent that I have. THROW THE KITCHEN SINK MY FRIEND.

I have never put much stock in "Faith Healing". I do believe that having a strong faith in your own body's DNA instructions and your mind's ability to supercharge those instructions to heal yourself are real. During 2006 I had occasion to feel a tsunami wave of healing -which I believe to have been super-nutritioned stem cell overproduction- that was produced in my healthier left half of my body, a wave of health that traveled across THROUGH MY CHEST TISSUES into the right side that was sorely afflicted; I believe I was dying.

Yep, my right side of my body was trying to die and my left side was able to send a fleet of healthy stem cells over to the right side's corresponding dying cells. Half of my body was spared from the tomb... which of course means I was 100% spared of death. After all, half a body cannot live without the other half.

When those super healthy cells passed through my chest it felt like the Cavalry of God was coming. Nutrition alone would not have been enough. I had to believe. Medicine alone would not have been enough. Faith alone would not have been enough. It had to be the full package delivery service on time, at the same time on multiple levels.

If you are not able or have the time to digest all the writings on my website, unable to absorb the many conclusions I have drawn about achieving super disease-fighting status, I want you to know the Big Picture that I have discovered. It was one you heard as a child and it applies today as you are aging more than ever > Don't put all your eggs in one basket. Use the biggest tool chest you have (hopefully within moral guidelines respecting sanctity of fetal life). It's just like understanding the Bible => you look at all the scriptures not just a few you like the most and then the understanding is forthcoming.

Today's American citizen has been eating and drinking an awesomely bad diet. Now the bill is coming due for that and it is jack hammering Americans into the ground, into the grave. I was once jack hammered, in 1986 when I fell from a truck. The ground when it hit me was a jack hammer through my body. I landed on my right side, having managed to turn myself sideways to do so. I knew in an instant as I started into the fall that if I landed on my back in the manner I fell out of the truck, towards a landing on my back, that would have been the end of me. My skull smashing into the ground would have been the last day of my life.

In 1989 I had not healed from the 1986 accident. Reason for that was my thyroid was not healthy so I just plain was not healing properly. Most people know that getting hit by a 1,000 pound bale in the back, then across the legs, and my chest flung forward smashing my torso (organs) into the ground at the speed of a rocket sled without a rocket sled suit, by all rights was a multiple jack hammer of blows no man should have lived through.

Well, you have had plenty of jack hammers hit you too! The resulting depression you fell into could have been prevented or at least the duration limited had you realized this truism > Minimum Daily Allowance & Minimum Daily Dosages go out the window when you are dying. You have to throw a kitchen sink full of nutrition products at your enemy, short term drowning and immersing of your opponent. Let the death that tries to swallow you KNOW WHO IS BOSS <> YOU. YOU ARE THE BOSS.

What about faith in God? Do you have it? You should, if for no other reason than reading words of a man who has died many times in his life writing a website with new inventions and health tips. Most people have heard of Sleep Apnea. I lived with it for 12+ years after my accident while being actively brain poisoned with the Lithium Carbonate overdosing I mentioned above. It gave me Parkinson's tremors and Alzheimer's-like memory blackouts. In fact, my very life force was being blacked out by wrongfully-prescribed medicine.

Ever hear of Brain Apnea? Sometimes, apparently from all the head concussions in my life ("Multiple Head Trauma Survivor" it is called plus the drowning when I was 12YO), my brain "dies" (temporary signal cessation) any number of times each day. But, you see, there again, a nutritionally-fortified body does not want to die so the oxygen stoppage eventually reminds the brain to start back up.

After the bale crushed down on my legs the circulatory oxygen was reduced to my brain, so yes, for a while I did need psychoactive meds TEMPORARILY. Had I been given nutrition products along with the lithium and xanax, wellbutrin and zoloft and all the others we tried, I would have revived from that issue a good deal faster. The flip side? Maybe I wouldn't have gained the insights needed to write this page or to have discovered Imitation Energy. So there are plusses and there are minuses. An interesting Bible Scripture says "God will not let his people be tested beyond what they are able to bear". So for all these many times that Death has tried to swallow me like Jonah's whale (large fish), I have kept my Faith as I was not allowed to shoulder more than I could bear.

Of course I am not the first to have lived through -or died- because of all these things I am writing. My purpose is to show you how you can superpower your body and mind to survive as I have. I believe that is possible & believe it is probable. According to the Christian apostle Paul in his letter to the Hebrew brothers and sisters in Christ, God is the rewarder. So you pump weights, pump nutrition, and pump each other up, but unless you find this Faith in God it is not going to work as well.

God is an "outside force" that powers us.
We need that because we are not perpetual motion beings.
Finding God therefore is integral to a long life.
Psalms 83:18 says His Name is Jehovah
but there are other spellings.
Yahweh is also one.

Question is though, what if you do not pray to Jehovah or Yahweh? Does that automatically mean you are not heard by the true God of Creation? No. For starters the Bible says God is the "hearer of prayer" without qualification. But, once a person prays to Hey You Out There it is appropriate to find out that Person's Name eh? And once you know, you stop praying to the great Hey You and use "His" Name.

A person can and does pray any time of the day. Some people believe in group prayer while holding each other's hands in a circle, much like spirit advisors use during a seance. Is it proper to pray like a seance? Probably if you are praying to HEY YOU OUT THERE but if you are praying to the One you think to be the "true God" it might be ill-advised to look like a group of spiritualists. There would be a possibility your prayers might get skipped aside.

However, I can say this. I believe that the holding of hands engages a flow of electrons that passes through people's hand holding. This sets up a circular flow of energy that heals. This is what I call "realistic faith healing". You see, when a person gets sick their body energies ebb down. Holding hands and even hugging of the sick person by a healthy person, the healthier person is like a battery jump start. Body contact allows the supercharged healthy person to help the sick person's body remember how the energy is supposed to flow.

It is however more than electrons. We each need someone to care about us. Now you take the terrorists over in Iraq or Native Americans protesting in Denver Colorado (AIM). They are convinced the United States people do not care about them so the opposite of realistic faith healing has taken place. Instead of healing they are being cauterized with a blow torch of hate that they perceive to be in effect burning them. Can we stop terrorists and terrorism by hugging them? No. They have witnessed so many of their Iraqi brothers, mothers, sisters & fathers being killed at the hand of the American military machine what with the entire Bush Administration military onslaught... any hugging is too little too late.

In 2003 and again in 2005 I was blessed to design several new types of engines that do not use combustion. They explode with power, power that comes from smart 360 degree "circular rail gun"-like design, power so great and intelligent that I have called them "God's Engines" many times. The engines make their own fuel "on-the-fly", Real-Time as they run and operate. They replenish themselves on their own by the Laws of Physics that governs all Matter in the Universe. These engines given through me to this world are a "hug" from God Almighty upon this pollution-ravaged, species-dying world, TO ME, TO YOU, AND TO THE TERRORISTS.

The engines show this world and universe were made by a God of Love, just as the Bible writer John wrote: "God is Love". Those are not just words on papyrus or paper! God made the Kinetic-Potential Cycle of the Millennial Dawn engine that keeps the planets and moons in orbit, always in place yet falling at the same time. Many people think this is just a gravity balance. IT IS NOT JUST GRAVITY; IT IS A BALANCE OF ENERGY BETWEEN KINETIC's MOTION AND POTENTIAL's NON-MOTION. And that is the secret of how the Millennial Dawn engine works, as I tried to explain in a post >

<http://www.newpath4.com/livingenginesystemsruleofthewheelkineticpotentialthermodynamicenergycycle2005millennialdawnenginewow2003bipolarsubconsciousmind2007faith.gif> .

I understand this world's governments are going to oppose the introduction of any engines dubbed "God's Engines" because they do not want to be interfered with by God nor be strapped by religious faith for the ever-ever future. They want to wean us free of the God who wants to heal us. The Millennial Dawn engine that makes home electric power by itself (which is called "standalone power") can also run electric motors in cars, pickup trucks. With some add-ons & adjustments the Millennial Dawn engine will create an upward thrust of power strong enough to lift lightweight homes and cars out of Earth Gravity. A family residence can also be the family car and will also be the family space travel with a family gym system. In Space where no Earth Gravity holds the Millennial Dawn engine back, near-light speeds can be realized.

Correctly designed and powered by Millennial Dawn engines, people can live in their spacecraft home, departing Earth into Outer Space and never return. You could park your home in orbit around Saturn or Pluto or coast along beside one of Jupiter's Moons to let it run linebacker for meteorites. Just set your orbit in the wake of Moon Juno letting the Moon "run interference" for your family's continued good health. {Of course a mass exodus of taxpayers going willy nilly into Outer Space never to return and file their taxes is pretty scary for government auditors.}

Staying warm? That is not a problem. Artificial light for growing crops and staying healthy? Not a problem. The "enginewow" engine system I placed online in August 2003 is a Space Peltier system for generating electricity as much as anyone would ever want. On Planet Earth it uses Gravity as an "outside force" to replenish its compressed air used in the air + steam engine, but in Outer Space the tubing to the outside cold of Outer Space re-liquifies the air into liquid O2 or you could use liquid nitrogen or plain air if you wanted to use them. The result is the same. Enginewow works in Gravity, using Gravity, or in Outer Space, using outside cold for gas liquification.

America and Americans have lost any position to where the Iraqis or terrorists would want to get a hug from us is my point. But were they to know about these "God's Engines" I have discovered <(by keeping my Faith in God intact, being subsequently blessed by Jehovah God to be the one to release them to the human family)> they would in fact receive that great big hug.

So you see folks, we are caught in an earthwide Catch-22 of monumental proportions. To restore Peace to this planet and its different societies we need these engines -as well their Source {God}- to become widely known by all people. Then we all receive the "hug" that might restore the connection that is now lost, the spiritual connection, the touching and hugging with God. Understanding that God never intended for us to have to drill crude oil out of the ground, drying this planet like a grape-to-raisin, pumping the drained oil wells with water, which changes the entire thermodynamics of planet Earth crust, mantle, earthquake and volcanics leaning toward self-annihilation & destruction because we overheated the air.

So while I have enjoyed this time I have spent since 2003 pursuing the answers only an Almighty God could have gifted to us, I acknowledge also that the world governments are strapped into an economic electric chair needing to keep citizens fully employed, and further wanting to wean its citizenry from Faith in God, that you getting these godly-design engines is not likely to happen at the hands of any present world government including the United States. They know Godliness breeds conscientious objectors to war. They fail to be able to ever say they are sorry for causing more wars and war deaths. In this absence of humility, unable to humble themselves and say We Are Sorry, the only avenue left is the dead end alley of more wars and more wars til we bang head-on into the end of the alley.

The spiral we -humanity- are caught in is a spiral leading to the end of the alley. Whichever country invents more robot warriors with chip implants, remote flying warrior jet plane delivery systems, masters the art of remotely-delivered death and destruction (which is of course the United States' budding technology), is set to win this race, achieved without >>>

Without humility, without hugs, without asking anyone's forgiveness, and without having to bow to anyone's God or idea of God.

So if all that is on the fast track now in 2007, why th heck bother to write this

page at all? I write because it is my job as world minister to tell all who will hear, that we are ultimately making some wrong choices for reaching the future.

The scientific bureaucracy does not want to acknowledge God's handiwork through my engines. They want their own engines for the money and for the bragging rights and to keep their position on the pedestal, replacing God. Bureaucratic Science intends to be our new god, the golden calf to save us from ill health and death.

By conducting wars they obtain a steady influx of healthy but injured soldiers who have lost legs & arms from bombs. This gives them the opportunity to perfect artificial limbs, replacement arms & legs. Is that not what a god would do? Once they do that, humans start looking to them for repairs (+ never-ending chip upgrades & enhancements). And yet, from my experiences this year and in 2006 of surviving a multiple onslaught of illnesses and bacterial infestations of my brain and body and lungs, plus inherited hypertension, I have shown we can probably harness the ability to regrow our own limbs.

But there again is the Catch-22. Science Bureaucracy does not want you to discover the power God has given you and to each one of us to self-heal in Faith and Power.

My brain cells were being dissolved by too much Lithium Carbonate together with perhaps not as much nutrition as I should have had. My skull collapsed down {2002}, hitting and stopping at my ears, mastoid and jaw bones. My brain. My skull dropped and hit into my top brain cells and below like a freight train. That is what Science's prescription drugs did for me as our immune system struggles with laboratory-made non-human material draining us of oxygen used to fight the invading drugs, which is also being done to you and your family. All of us who get ill today represent an opportunity for Science and medical researchers -IN THE GUISE OF BEING OUR HEALERS- to use us as their private stock of experimental lab rats just as they used me. (Paranoia or Fact? Answer: Fact. The massive United States pharmaceutical industry produced a drug over 12 years ago that eradicated all heart and circulatory disease death; and they put it on a shelf.)

Well, I did heal to a large extent. They beat me harder than they beat the apostle Paul. They took a white coat hanger position over me and beat me down trying to abort me out of here, from 1989 til 2006 extremely little Medicare help. I am here now kept alive by the Grace of God Almighty to give you these engines and to tell you we do not need scientists transforming Humankind into RoboSapiens ManRobotKind.

A heaven-based government is in place now in the Heavens; it is called the Kingdom of God. It has provided you with an I LOVE YOU sign of new engines that do not combust and destroy Matter. We have a glorious heritage coming to us if we choose the right God to serve and that god has never been other men. Links to Bible websites with supporting scriptures telling of this new kingdom are on this web page > <http://www.newpath4.com/about.htm> . Other links to Bible understandings and the value of human life which will never be aborted under that Kingdom are here.

For those of you who do read the Bible, you know that no such "sign" was promised. We were not to expect a sign other than the "sign of Jonah". Have my repeated injuries and apnea deaths been that sign? I do not know. But we were warned away from most signs because they would most likely come from the Anti-Christ or the Devil. Well, you have been given a sign anyway. God is God, God does what God wants, and God decided to give us a sign anyway BECAUSE IT PLEASSED HIM TO DO SO.

Why?! Because it was the righteous thing to do.

Something many people of this world has lost sight of.

My suggestion to you is not to have faith in any man nor in me.

Have faith in yourself and the awesomeness of what you are and in the awesomeness of what you can be in partnership with Jehovah God.

As He gave it into my hand to stay alive and tell you even when others did their best to use me, discard me, try to kill me as their laboratory rat.

I did not save myself by my own power alone.

God was with me, wanted someone to tell you about the engines who would tell you the engines are from Him.

Someone who would tell you to hold God's Hands and let the healing power of God flow through you.

Or of course, hey, you can stick with the scientists if you want.

They will give you high definition cities and high definition wars, a highdefinition implanted chips-with-encyclopedias life til you are injured in a car accident that destroys one of the chips.

Then you'll drop into sudden deep shock & die.

Sort of like each of us walking with a ticking time bomb brain.

God has been healing me for 55 years now. He did not require me to have any chips drilled into my brain. All I needed was faith <> He did the rest.

When the day comes you have the entire Library of Congress in your head, who gets the credit? Not you. You want to know what happens then?

With your computer brain you realize you do not deserve it because you did not achieve it. You will achieve everything but find out inside you feel like yesterday's trash, non self-achieving robot life undeserving trash.

How long will your robot-chip-enhanced brain

be able to avoid that thought?

When you think faster, it was the chip did it. When you run faster, it was the scientist's leg implants did it. When you hug a woman or a man, you will hug them with robot arms doing the hugging. Oh, for sure you will be an enhanced being.

But you will not be human <> you will be something else. You will realize you are like today's combustion engine, a patched engine. The answer to that riddle is the same as the answer to the combustion engine riddle. It is called a scrap yard {depression} and a recycling bin {suicide}.

But on the other hand achieving goals by worshipping God, you did it.

You became the kinetic motion side of the Millennial Dawn engine.

And you did it really well. Computer chips cannot give you that.
