

A car fuel that never burns up; non burning bush?

The Earth has always been a desktop fusion paradise.

I first came to envision such, the exact process on July 12 2003.

Here on Sept. 22, 2008 is the support for making the above statement:

2: Paranoia towards any new invention is expected. So when this thread began I expected to be challenged on my "New Energy" engines. Some people do tend to get angry because my "New Energy" is really a combination of the oldest engines ~and the energy that runs them~ Mankind has ever had. It's New Energy that is really Old Energy but with it I have made several Desktop Fusion engine systems. I made the following post on a blog over in Spain this morning explaining EXACTLY how I have made the equivalent of Desktop Fusion for powering cars, trucks (and also why all of you can keep your heavy SUV's and heavy Hummers WITHOUT GUILT).

I also explain how Peak Oil no longer applies to Planet Earth and that therefore we are living in Paradise right now:

What are people trying to stop? Me? No. They want to stop the new knowledge about Energy that I have shown can be developed that's different from the way we always thought of energy. Energy can't be "created" any more than life can. We can't sit down and concentrate on a bit of matter and make it start breathing; we can't make energy that way either. What we can do is set up conditions that combine into exponential energies that are much more than the sum of its parts.

And we can do it with a smartness about it by setting it up to run in a circle (around a central point). A wheel is a very unhappy shape. No matter how hard it tries to lift itself up off the ground it never ever succeeds... so that it is doomed to always keep trying. A wheel is therefore always "falling forward" when it is rolling and not when we stop it. It achieves physical happiness by not moving, the opposite of humans.

Any engine system that is made to operate or turn in a circular pattern is locked into that circle of unhappiness that is primed by virtue of its design to keep running with the barest of force needed because it achieves the highest efficiency. However, for every innumerable "point" on the wheel's circumference it is applying a powerful leverage force at the axle (or central point it is rotating around). The Lever is one of mankind's simple engines... and most effective.

Combining several such (simple) engine shapes together to work and multiply their forces is the combination I brought to the table in 2003. When the compressed air ~in my vehicle engine I called simply "enginewow" in 2003~ is Power-Decompressed by encountering heated H2O steam in the engine cylinder it is a violent release just as powerful as a gasoline explosion. The steam acts as a non-chemical catalyst to speed the air's decompression from merely expanding to EXPLODING. That's why Professor Hertzberg's air powered engine failed to replace gasoline & diesel power in 1997. His engine only expanded the air. His prototype achieved 30 mph without any steam.

With steam added, my engine will take you down the highway at 300 miles per hour if that's the way you want to be remembered. But in my system after exploding into full state of air again it goes to the compressors that have replaced all the springs and shocks on the car or truck. The energy they were absorbing & controlling is then used to recompress the air so that the air being compressed is then being decompressed all over again for another explosion & another MOVING IN A CIRCLE FALLING FORWARD again & again & again as the vehicle moves.

This is in essence a form of Desktop Fusion, an Energy that scientists the world over have been chasing a long time, and you can have YOUR CAR RUNNING ON DESKTOP FUSION-EQUIVALENT ENERGY RIGHT NOW. But unlike fusion reactions neither the air molecules nor the H2O molecules are undergoing any chemical or physical damage, so this engine re-uses them both (Prime Mover swap explained this gif).

Such an engine that does not ever overheat does not break down the engine oil viscosity, so the engine oil would not be changed for many thousands of miles. The threat of "Peak Oil" goes away. The reason we use underground oil now is because our present engines overheat it and dirty it. Oil that's in my engine doesn't get dirty because there's no combustion going on. The system is closed. The oil never gets polluted. Because of that we can grow oil from plants aboveground and never need underground source oil.

This is not "alternative energy" as is commonly understood now, nor is it what people call "renewable" energy either => this is a reuseable energy/engine fuel because it is never "used up" in the first place; it is reused indefinitely into the future. It is a new definition of Alternative Energy, as in Replaces everything now used to power cars and trucks.

So those people pulling that trick on the radio talk show (mixing taped old show comments with new comments deriding my engine systems as posted on this blog as well my websites askinventor1 ~ askinventor2 and newpath4) are trying to keep their Crude Oil money ball rolling which is itself a wheel engine running tirelessly forever over taxpayers (and anyone who ever purchases anything at all i.e. sales taxes). Keeping the money ball running also keeps wars going, so all people who desire Peace on Earth Good Will toward Men and Women and their children want my engine yesterday.

I have handed you the game ball, the Paradise ball. It is God's Gift to all of us whether we believe in Him or not. It is the gift that was given before we were ever a gleam in anybody's eye as the previous poster had mentioned. It is His gift to people who feel like some previous posters who see no point in believing God even exists. Now he has plenty of reason => pdflistfor2008.htm# Real Energy Real Time Now

We are a very blessed people and this world has been changed since July 12 2003 just as stated in my SlashDot profile (recent posts also).

No matter what your Time Zone you are now in God's Paradise Time.
Stay on the old energies as long as it pleases you.
The package has been delivered by a JW.
The Bible says we started in Paradise.
The Bible writers were correct.

and Don't Forget the Gold.

1. The Bible does not foretell an end to the world/planet but an end to the system under Satan's control 2 Corinthians 4:4 for that. Point of fact, the Bible states in several places the planet is going to last forever. So you were correct on that. Yes, there have been many groups predict a certain Date, specifically starting back around the 1850's. Then the Seventh Day Adventists set a few dates also. One of the main gentlemen who started the Bible Students came along a bit behind those fellows. He took an interest in the subject. They formed a small group of their own and began digging through the Scriptures to find out why the other group's predictions failed to pan out. What they found out -and believe they were blessed by God's spirit to understand- was that the signs of Christ's parousia (Presence) ~not "Coming" as most others believe~ were many and all of them had to come true only after a set period of time had passed on the calendar.

The previous groups failed because that time period had not finished yet. Jesus called it "the times of the nations" at Luke 21:24. Some translations call it the "Times of the Gentiles". It was a period of time where God's Kingdom went completely dormant on Earth, which started in 607 BC and ran for 2,520 years. In 1914 it did come to an end and the anguish of nations in this "time of the end" {or End Times} began ticking down in earnest fulfillment of Prophecy. It's an involved issue that would take a lot of typing. I suggest if you want to know more you find a Witness and ask them or get some literature. Like I wrote you before, there is simply a lot of stuff like this clogging the major religion's pipes so they manage to keep people ignorant about the End Times and the seriously close reality of the approaching Biblical Armageddon.

You seem to be in a very big hurry to make sure you use my comments for your personal punching bag. I understand. Your disrespect toward accomplished engineer masters Hertzberg and Boese after they both fixed a similar engine running off of compressed air just shows me that what "you think" is trumping everybody else. Plus you are even wanting to disregard the powerful forces of gravity and inertia of a TWO THOUSAND POUND MOVING VEHICLE TO DO WORK WHILE UNDER A 40-70 MPH CRUISING VELOCITY. You're wearing some mighty large blinders. I don't see much sense in my spending more time with you. You are just being argumentative pulling stuff out of your hat so that you always end up being right somehow. You aren't this time. I wish you the best.

If you still have trouble with the contents explained above, how steam heat and cold air can be exploded together inside an engine cylinder to produce an explosive non-combustion fuel from inert liquids to mimic gasoline, diesel and other combustion fuels, just think of how vinegar and baking soda explodes with tremendous unstoppable force. Enginewow's air+steam process does much the same except that ~unlike a chemical explosion~ this engine system repeats over & over. Yep, the end of the Peak Oil Threat and the end of combustion engine pollution is just that easy. This is a physics fuel explosion that produces zero emissions.

It is not the only such engine. There are many others.

We live in an Energy paradise. These engines plus a natural lightning engine:

newpath4.com/nooneknowswherelightningwillstrikenextcreationgodsaysyesyoucan.pdf

as well some many other engines not yet released.

Persistent Suspicions of a Clever Wow Energy Hoax

It has been brought to my attention that a persistent suspicion of a hoax exists. Well, that is very natural and normal. Some people might think, for instance, that my car design is somehow getting energy from the wind it is running into while traveling along, like a Conestoga wagon or a spaceship using great solar sails. That is not correct but it is a rather common and logical assumption some people might make in the absence of explanation the transparency of communication. That is what this document is for. People want to know where does the energy come from for compressing the air? As stated previously it is coming from Gravity and the Moving Inertia of the heavy vehicle. I have come to realize I need to be more specific than just tossing out words and hope the reader is able to understand how the enginewow's deer-strong "heart of a beast"-level energy is being generated from Gravity. Here goes:

My car design is for the vehicle body to not be connected to the frame anywhere but at one place, a central stem. So that way every smidgeon of Up & Down of the wheels is pressing the air compressors Up & Down. If the car goes around a curve and leans, it makes more "fuel" (compressed air). If you hit the brakes or accelerate enough, more fuel. Any time the wheels hit a dip or pothole, more fuel. Some people get all crossed up and failed to see a lot of stuff, deciding I wanted the car running solely on the vehicle's Forward Motion. Look closely at this picture. Note two things => #1 the compressors are hanging down from the car body not sitting their weight on the frame and #2 the hanging compressor contacts have a space between them to the bottom frame. That tiny space allows motion to begin before encountering resistance => the car body has momentum first. Observe the single central stem.

Nope. My car design translates the many Up & Down energies of about any movement the vehicle makes into more fuel including at the barest touch of the brake pedal just one of the things Dr.Hertzberg missed. He depended on just compressed air (nitrogen). I added Physics Laws, Gravity and Inertia, Speed and Momentum. Then last year and early this year I realized the engine could be a circular multiple flywheels engine having two spinning Metal gear plates on either side. One provides power to the front wheels for starting out in low gear, also for snow, while the opposite side {same axle} geared plate sends high RPM power to the rear wheels for interstate driving speeds.

By having an engine where all the cylinders fire at the same time plus using multiple weighted flywheels ~also serving as drive gears~ you have a very powerful engine that can push the vehicle down the highway WITH LESS FUEL IN HIGH GEAR barely dropping a gear for hills. Even the fluid in the engine has flywheel momentum, adding to the total power of the engine. I can't write a Living Engine in engineering terms because I was physically unable to get the schooling to do so, and yet I use plenty good explanations enough to understand that I have indeed cracked the polluted energy egg.

We do not need combustion engines in any vehicle on Earth.

We do not need combustion engines in any vehicle on Earth. We have the engine that does everything we need. But you see, this system under Satan has brainwashed masses of people into believing there is not and can not ever be a "the answer" to anything whether it be Bible sourced-God or engineering. This system has people so wound up like a clock so much you have difficulty seeing anything but what they tell you you are supposed to see. I believe in "the answers" from God so perhaps that is why I was Blessed to see them and others like Dr.s Boese and Hertzberg were not?

You can beat all that brainwashing with Bible Truth. Otherwise they got ya. Which isn't very hard to do so long as a person denies Satan is a live being existing in an invisible dimensional layer where he causes us problems. That is to be done away with shortly according to Bible Revelations given Saint John. The Watchtower Society offers a short paperback now {What Does the Bible Really Teach?} being distributed world wide that is a big help coming to understand the scriptural promises, one of which is to rid the human race and all Creation of this wicked angel son. They do a much better job of it than I can here => Watchtower Society website link. Jehovah's Witnesses also offer a Free Home Bible Study to interested people, only accepting donations when offered never asked.

The Price of Conducting a Satanic Energy Hoax

Once in a while someone will hurl me an insult, that why doesn't the WT Society build my engines? The WT Society does a Bible education work, not building your engines for you|me. In that single purpose they excel in completion of Matthew 24:14 and Matthew 28:19, 20 and Matthew 25:31-46. They have their hands full with the world preaching work and I have the engine job of what I do added to that. My job required someone on disability having free time.

Jehovah God and Christ Jesus choose which ones they want doing what {organized}.

If I was to hoax people I would pay a very heavy price.
